

MUTILATED BODY NOT IDENTIFIED

Coroner Has Ordered Autopsy Made to Determine Cause of Death of Man Whose Trunk Was Found Near Hoboken.

HANDS LIKE AN ENGINEER.

Believed by Physicians that Propeller Blades of Some Steamship Cut Off Part of Head and the Legs Which Are Missing.

The Police of Hoboken, Jersey City and this city thus far have failed to find a single clue to the identity of the man whose mutilated body was taken from the river at the foot of Ferry street, Hoboken.

The body lies in York's Morgue, H.
Hoboken, where County Physician C. B.
Converse will hold an autopsy to-day.

It is believed by the Coroner and detectives who have examined the body that the dead man was an engineer in comfortable circumstances. This has been established by the condition of the hands. They showed that he had done hard work, but not recently. The nails were well kept and were clean underneath, but there was a thin black line around the skin at the base of the nails, such as would come from handling oil-soaked cotton waste. This is very hard to remove and will show for days and some times weeks despite frequent scrubbings.

If the autopsy reveals evidence of murder the case promises to be another Guldensuppe mystery. The cut on the head and the fracture of the arm may have been made by the propeller of a large steamship. The cuts which separated the legs from the trunk were made downward, on the right side from right to left and on the left side from left to right.

Is Not Explained.
The fracture at the base of the boat could not have been made by human agency," said Dr. Converse to an Evening World reporter to-day. "A powerful steam-driven instrument, such as the twin-screw of an ocean liner, might have severed the top of the head—yet the nakedness of the human trunk cannot be explained by this theory unless the man was drowned while bathing." Dr. Converse holds that the finding of water in the lungs would in a measure indicate death by drowning, although the mutilation of the body would make it possible for water to enter the lungs.

Two local surgeons of Hoboken, at the instance of the Evening World, viewed the body at the Morgue. Both concurred with the County Physician that the twin-screw of a steamship was the probable cause of the mutilation.

Propeller May Have Cut It.
The blades of a propeller are keen and sharp. They may have been floating face downward when the skull was struck. With the sweep of the screw the legs could have been torn from the body in the first revolution. The orbit described by the propeller is three feet, just the measurement of the human trunk found. This theory is supported by agents of the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd's steamship companies, whose boats dock at Hoboken.

If the body is that of an employee of one of the German steamship companies it may never be identified, as records are kept on the boats. Chief of Police Patrick Hayes still holds to his original belief that the unknown man was drowned in the river when drowned and that his clothes are in a berth of some vessel now in port.

TILLMAN MADE A THREAT TO KILL

Declared He Would Do Away with Gonzales if Attacked by the Editor During His Campaign for Governor.

LEXINGTON, S. C., Oct. 2.—Sena-tional testimony was given at the trial of James H. Tillman to-day by C. J.
Cerrill, editor of a newspaper in Florence county. Asked by Solicitor Thurmond if he ever heard Tillman make any threats he replied that he was walking along the streets of Edgefield with Col. Tillman in the early summer of 1902, he thought it was, and that he (Tillman) said "He was going to run for Governor and if Gonzales attacked him he was going down and kill him."
"I think he said like a dog," the witness added.

F. G. Withers, an employee of the State, testified that he assisted N. G.
Gonzales into the office of the State from the street after the shooting. He was asked if he saw any weapons in the garments of Mr. Gonzales at that time, and he replied that he did not. Others corroborated this.

Dr. J. W. Wallace testified that he was in the office of the State with N.
G. Gonzales after the shooting, and that Gonzales said to him that he was talking shot.

Dr. C. L. Adams testified to a conversation he said he had with the defendant during the campaign in which he said he told Mr. Tillman that if he wished to be Governor of South Carolina he would have to fight Gonzales, to which he said the defendant replied:
"That won't do, because I am the Lieutenant-Governor and will be at service."

The witness testified that Mr. Tillman made the further statement: "My boys need not worry. I'll shoot his life with this," the witness adding, "pulling his pistol from his gun." Continuing, the witness said the defendant said among other things: "I'll make it the first thing I ever happened in South Carolina."

On cross-examination he said he had no recollection of the defendant saying that Gonzales was to be unfriendly. He said he supported and voted for Tillman for Governor.

NORTH CAROLINA'S CORP.

(Special to The Evening World.) S. A. RICH, N. C., Oct. 2.—The corporation of the State of North Carolina has been incorporated to-day by the State Agricultural Department, on returns from 1,500 correspondents, the present condition of the State.

INARTISTIC BEATING HURT FRENCH ARTIST'S FEELINGS.

"Sacre Bleu! but the American Has No Appreciation of the Real Art."

"Sacre bleu! Ze American he have no soul for ze art! Ze stage hand is one assassin! La Demoiselle of ze chorus, she is one amazon! It is because we wish to paint ze portrait of La Belle Templeton, of ze Ca-se-no-sat we are beat. Mon Dieu! How we are beat!" These are the words of Herman Morette and Louis Gavins, artists, Messieurs of the No. 225 Rue Cinque, which means in your language, Mes-sieurs, Fifth avenue. It is that these artists have devalued with artistic eyes the curves beautiful of the Templeton at the Casino or Messieurs Shubert.
When La Belle Chanteuse, Mlle. Fay, has come out on the stage to deliver her chanson, Messieurs Morette et Gavins have added their "bravas" to the roar of applause and they have conceived the idea of placing the Templeton beauty upon the canvas immortal.
They await at the stage door. Mlle.
Templeton exits to her dressing room.
She is followed by La Tante, Mme. Belle Adams, Morette et Gavins they have made mistake and rush up to Mme.
Le Tante, M. Foley, guard of the portal, he wave them back. They advance again. A crowd of ruffians, assassins, messieurs du chorus join also in the fray.
Morette et Gavins are beat about the face in fearful manner. The grandmame rises to the rescue. Morette et Gavins explode they but wish to paint the portrait of Mlle. Templeton. They are released, but La Templeton has again been bleeding. They are hors du combat.
Such is the appreciation of art in this, your country, messieurs.

ORIENT CLUB RAID WAS A FAILURE

Detectives Tried to Burst Into the Place, and Got Two Prisoners After a Hard Fight in the Street.

Detectives McCarthy and Golden, of the East Twenty-second Street Station, knew what it is to raid a pool-room, scuffle and fight with two strong men, who say they are not and never were such things as "police sharp," and then be told in court next morning that "There isn't any evidence to hold these men, so they are discharged."

Commissioner Greene put this ball in rolling order. He sent word to Acting Captain Jones, who does his work in the Twenty-second street office, that if he had two good, live detectives he was sure that they would unearth a house of policy games at No. 210 East Thirty-third street. McCarthy and Golden were selected for the game.

They went to the alleged policy house last night, armed with several kinds of revolvers and weighted with handcuffs.
The door bears the inscription, "Orient Club," and it is the habit of all its members to present a card before admission can be effected. The only entrance is by a steel door that has a wicket opening in at the top part.

Three members of the club entered while the detectives were in waiting.
The next step was to follow them in.
This was attempted. What followed was a street fight and a hard one at that, the result being the arrest of two men who gave their names as John Alexander and Michael Jennings, but who, according to the police, are John Pursell and Michael Lyons.

Before Magistrate Flannery to-day the detectives were asked for evidence of policy.
"I will do all I can to help you," said the Magistrate, "but moral certainty is not legal evidence. These men had a right under the law to refuse an entrance unless you were sure that there was a policy game going on inside.
I am sorry, but I must discharge the prisoners."

CLUE TO DREXEL JEWELS.

NEWPORT, Oct. 2.—It is reported that a clue has been discovered, indicating that at least part of the jewels lost by Mrs. John R. Drexel during July and August, 1902, were offered for sale somewhere in this State or New York. The jewels were lost on two occasions, somewhere between Mrs.
Drexel's home at Ochre Point and the home of Mrs. Oliver Belmont and the home of Mrs. Carter. The police have again taken up the case.

ANARCHISM DISCUSSED.

ANTWERP, Belgium, Oct. 2.—The International Law Conference terminated to-day after a desultory discussion of anarchism. The subject was introduced by a London delegate, who discussed the proposal of Leroy Parks of Buffalo, N. Y., for an international agreement on the subject of anarchism. The matter was referred to the next conference for a fuller debate.

STRIKERS FACE SWORDS.

Berlin Police Use Sabres in Driving Back Street Rioters.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—Thirty persons suffering from sabre cuts have applied at the Red Cross stations to have their wounds dressed, after a riot between omnibus strikers and non-strikers in Nettelbeck square here last night. The police on foot charged the rioters with drawn swords, and finally mounted police cleared the street.
The strike is a small one, only about one thousand men being engaged, but the men are embittered and violent.
The police charged the rioters seven times and used their sabres ruthlessly.

The strikers and their sympathizers stoned the police, injuring some of them badly. The strikers aver that several hundreds of persons were wounded.
Numerous arrests have been made and the police now occupy the omnibus terminals in force.

ELECTRICIAN DIED AT POST.

Employee of Rapid Transit Power-House Was Missing.

Albert Hodgett, twenty-eight years old, was found dead to-day in the oil-room of the Rapid Transit power-house at Seventy-fourth street and East River.
The cause of death is as yet unknown.
The Coroner will hold an autopsy on the body.

Hodgett, who is an electrician, was sent into the oil-room at 11 o'clock in the course of his employment. As he did not return for some time, workmen went after him to find out the cause of the delay in returning to his work.
Hodgett was lying stretched out on the floor. His friends in the shops say that he was suffering from kidney troubles, and it is thought that death might have been due to uric acid poisoning.

Why There Is a Difference Between Our "Concave" Shoulder Clothing and the Ordinary Kind.

That which you do yourself is, done best—when things are left to other hands to be done they fall short of the expected results.
If this statement is true of any one thing in particular, it is true of men's clothes. There are a few high-class men's clothiers who are directly responsible for the clothes they make. But the rest—are no further interested in clothes making than the selling of it.
Tom, Dick or Harry supplies the clothes and the ordinary ready-made clothing store sells 'em to you for better or for worse. The clothes are characterless, the makers conscienceless—they, the makers, do not know you, so what matters it?

We don't want to sell you for to-day, but for to-morrow, and the day after. We know in order to do this we must give you the best clothes it is possible to give. And we do that.

We make all our own clothes in our own workrooms, and are directly responsible for each and every garment we sell. So isn't it most reasonable to assume that our clothing is much better than the other kind?

Our famous "Concave" shoulder and "Closefitting" collar are features that you don't find in ordinary clothes. We have put them into all of our Fall suits and overcoats, from the lowest to the highest priced.
